Please tell me YOUR STORY ...people like to know who they're looking at :)
No more than 250 words please. I'll do the editing, you just tell me YOUR STORY :)

See our 250-word example here:

Before Matthew and I met, we both worked for the same company, lived on the same street, and ran in similar circles of friends while living in Middletown, CT. It wasn't until after I moved to Boston for a new job and came back to Connecticut for a party the next summer that we met for the first time. The coincidences surrounding our intertwined pasts, and seemingly opportunistic timing, made our initial meeting even more magical.

Eventually Matthew moved to Boston, where we still live today, and our relationship continued to blossom. After five years of dating, he proposed on our private garden-level patio in Back Bay while white rope lights lit the scene, red rose petals covered the ground, and wisps of snow flurries filled the air – as corny as it sounds, it was like a movie!

Even though we lived in Boston, having the wedding in the Capital Region was the logical and heartfelt choice, with Matthew growing up in Oswego and myself in Troy. After visiting many venues in the region, we decided upon The Glen Sander's Mansion for the reception given its unique history and the natural beauty of its surroundings.

Our wedding day could not have been more beautiful, and we were so thankful to all our vendors that helped make the day what it was. We were both just so appreciative of being able to spend that moment with our family and friends whom we love so much.

Ok, now you go....
